Committee Puts Festival Affairs On Sound Footing

Things Running on Schedule and No Hit-or-Miss Policy Goes.

DAY TO BE BUSY ONE

Expected Crowd Will Be Entertained From Dawn
To Midnight.

Hope fourth annual Festival may be a day of vacation and good-timing for thousands of visitors but it is just the busy climax to weeks of hard work on the part of many loyal citizens here who labor unceasingly to make the affair a success.

Numerous committees appointed have functioned and are going on through to the end of the job, and their work has had no slipshod, hit-or-miss policy. It has been crisp and clearly outlined by Winn Denty, Terrell Cornelius, Bob Wilson and Carter Johnson, their actions based on experience in former festivals, and everything has gone through on schedule time.

A brief review of the activities of the concessions committee—one of the most important for it is through this committee many of the dollars necessary to the festival's success—come in—might be interesting and gives an insight into how the affair has been handled.

The Ralph Miller Show, one of the best carnival attractions on the road, playing a week's engagement, pays percentage of gate receipts to committee.

Hope Coca Cola Bottling Company bought and paid cash for all cold drink, ice cream and sandwich concessions in the park.

Then arrangements have been made for a ball game at the park in the afternoon, following the coronation ceremony, in which will appear a number of faces familiar to Hope fans—Darymple, Cook, Schooley and others.

At night a boxing contest at the park, percentage of receipts to the committee.

A plane for use in the parade has been tendered the committee by H. C. Cough, president of the L. & A. railroad and the Arkansas Light & Power Co., and two Command-Air cabin planes will be at hand for passenger flights.

Then dancing down town and at Elks Hall and the Skating Rink; massed and individual band concerts, exhibitions by drill teams of various fraternal organizations—in fact, a continuous performance through the day and evening larger than a three-ring circus and by far more interesting.

Peak of Harvest In Orchard Over

Expected That Saturday
Will See Wind Up of Shipping Season.

NASHVILLE, July 30. The peak of the peach harvest in the Highland District ended Saturday, and the shipments now will grow lighter each day until the close of the harvest, which is expected to last until Saturday. It is estimated that at least 80 per cent of the peaches in the district have already been moved. Most of the orchards will finish their harvest by Wednesday, but there will be a few ears as late as Saturday of this week.

Some of the orchardists finished stripping their orchards last week, and nearly all others will be finished stripping Wednesday.

The fruit now moving is of fine quality, and where rain has been had in an orchard, the peaches are the finest of the entire season.

The peak of the harvest was handled without the least faltering this year, this being the best handled harvest in the history of the district.

Numerous tourists continue to visit the district daily to watch the harvest, there having been cars from practically every state in the Union here during the present harvest.

A New Menace to Aviation: Steam - Rollers!

Here's something new in collisions. An airplane swooping down at 90 miles an hour and a steam roller puffing along at less than two miles crashed at Roosevelt Field, Long Island. The plane pilot, about to attempt a landing said he hadn't been able to see the steam roller for a cloud of dust. He and a passenger were unhurt, despite the almost complete smash-up of the plane, but the driver of the engine was swept to the ground and severely injured. The wreckage is pictured above.

Number Streets In Paved Section

City Has Force of Men At Work On Needed Improvement.

A force of workmen Monday morning began the work of painting at all street intersections the names of the streets, an improvement sadly needed since the city is taking on metropolitan airs and its tourist trade greater than at any time in history.

The street names are painted on the curb, yellow lettering on a black background and constitute an attractive sign, easily read by the passing motorist.

Federal Reserve Shows Progress

District Makes Gains During Preceding Year Reports Show.

ST. LOUIS, July 30.—(AP)—Due chiefly to seasonal influences, business in the Eighth Federal Reserve District receded slight during the past 30 days, according to the monthly report of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, issued today.

Taken as a whole, however, the general rate of activity in commerce and industry was measurably higher than at the same time during any of the past few years. Production and distribution of merchandise continued on an unusually large scale and more seasonable weather was reflected in increased sales in a number of lines handling goods for ordinary consumption. This was true particularly of apparel, drugs and chemicals, electrical supplies and sporting goods.

Retail trade, the report shows, generally was in considerable volume, but was relatively better in an suburban centers than in the country and small towns, which latter fact has due in part to harvest and intensive farm work. While purchasing by retail merchants is still chiefly on an immediate shipment basis, wholesalers, notably dry goods, boots and shoes.

English Strikers Paralyze Mills

Efforts To Reach Agreement Fail and Strikers
Stay Out.

MANCHESTER, Eng., July 30. (AP)—Three methods suggested by different cotton organizations to relieve bring about a resumption of negotiations to relieve the great cotton industry stoppage, affecting nearly half a million workers who are on strike against a proposed wage cut of 12 1-2 per cent. A committee of the Master Cotton Spinners Federation conferred with a committee representing the strikers but failed to reopen negotiations.

The Spinners Amalgamated Federation announced an entire willingness to reopen negotiations with the strikers in an effort to settle the trouble.

Alabama Justice Is Blindfolded

FLORENCE, Ala., Two men entered the office of Solicitor Murphy and asked to swear out a warrant. They said they had sent a man after a bottle of "home brew" for which they were to pay 50 cents, giving the "legger" a five dollar bill. They alleged he refused to return the change. The warrant was not issued.

Rephan Displays Maids Costumes

Windows Are Mecca for Fair Sex On Shopping Intent.

Costumes for Maids of the Melon Festival were placed on display yesterday in the windows at Rephan's store where they have attracted the attention of every woman—and most of the men—passing by.

Of coral-pink georgette, trimmed in silver, the costumes are simply beautiful and will form a perfect background for the Queen in her robe of white chiffon, tulle trimmed.

The Queen's gown is on display at the Ladies Specialty Shop, together with the string of pearls, the gift of Stewart's jewelry store. The Queen's dress was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, of the Specialty Shop, and Mr. Stewart's gift of pearls is the touch of individuality bringing the whole to perfection.

Town Moved When Train Refused To Come In

MOBETTIE, Texas, July 30.—Remember the one about Mohammed and the mountain? Well, when residents of Mobettie, the oldest town in the Texas Pan-handle, found that the branch line of the Santa Fe railroad would not come to them, they decided to go to the railroad.

Peach Growers In Fight for Fruit

Wage War To Exterminate Worm Which Is Proving Menace.

NASHVILLE, July 30.—Following the appeal for the orchardists to start the battle now against the curculio, County Agent C. L. Rodgers has mailed letters to practically every orchardist in the district asking full co-operation in a campaign against the pest, in order that further infestation may be stopped and the district saved from a serious situation.

Mr. Rodgers urged the orchardists to dig trenches for all their cull peaches, and after placing the culls in the trenches, to cover them with stone lime and then at least two feet of soil. This is believed to be the surest and cheapest manner to kill out the worms and stop further breeding.

The orchardists are asked to clean their orchards thoroughly as soon as the harvest is over, picking up all the peaches in the orchard, as well as cleaning all underbrush, fence rows, ditch banks and other places where the pests might germinate.

In cases where the culls have been thrown on the ground it is urged that the culls as well as the first three or four inches of the soil, be moved and placed in the cull trench and given the same treatment as the other culls, it being said that most of the worms have left the peaches in these cull piles and gone into the ground. The removal of the peaches alone would not get the major part of the worms, but the scraping up and disposing of the first three or four inches of the soil will get all of them.

Many of the orchardists have already expressed their intention to join in the fight and carry out the suggestions thoroughly, and it is expected that every orchardist in the district will join in the fight.

Legion Hears Its National Adjutant

In Speech To Arkansas
Legion Declares Cruiser
Bill Right.

SPRINGFIELD, July 30. (AP)—The passage by congress of the cruiser bill constituted a signal victory for the American Legion's self-defense policy, James F. Barton, national adjutant of the Legion, told the Arkansas department at its annual convention here today.

"We stood virtually alone against many organizations, some of them very powerful, in our fight for the construction of 15 cruisers and an air plane carrier as an item of national defense," he said. "Pacifist organizations all sought to defeat the bill, but in the end our plea for an adequate navy prevailed."

Barton's address was the principal one on today's program at the annual convention of the Legion which opened yesterday and which will continue through tomorrow. Senator Joe T. Robinson was the principal speaker yesterday.

'St. Louis Robin' Fliers, Ordered Down, Stay Aloft

Ignore Orders of Flight
Sponsor and Continue
Epochal Ride.

500 HOURS IS GOAL

Say Ship In Good Shape and They Are, Too, and
Will Stay Up.

ST. LOUIS, July 30.—(AP)—The monoplane, "St. Louis Robin," passed its 411th hour at 10:17 this morning and its pilots, Jackson and O'Brien, had made no response to the order to land today sent up this morning by Major William B. Robertson, sponsor of the flight.

The fliers, however, did drop a note answering a letter written by Major Robertson in which he gave them permission to land at any time but left the matter to their own judgment. The message said: "Motor running good. No reason for quitting now. We are shooting at the 500 hour mark. The ship is fine and so are we."

A short time before the landing order was taken aloft Jackson dropped a note to Phil Silvers, aerial photographer at the field, in which he said: "We hope to stay up there a month."

Major Craswell, piloting the refueling plane, took the order to land up to the fliers this morning. He told newspaper men that a further statement would be made by Major Robertson later.

Joseph Mellon, representing the Curtiss interests, said: "They have done their stuff and we don't want to take any chances with them."

"What if they refuse to come down?" an inquirer asked Major Robertson.

"We will still send them food and fuel," he replied.

The wives of the fliers, though stating they would be happy to see their husbands on the ground again said they thought the fliers' ambition to establish an all-time record should be encouraged.

Killers Ailments Slow Down Trial

Jury To Try Snook Is Yet
Far From Complete
Officials Say.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 30. (AP)—The physical condition of Dr. James H. Snook, today again slowed up the already lagging selection of a jury to try him for the murder of Theora K. Hix, 25, the Ohio University co-ed paramour.

Snook suffered more severely today than yesterday apparently as the result of a spinal test made Saturday to assist in a determination of his sanity. He at one time interrupted an examination of prospective jurors while he was taken to an ante-room for medicine to relieve the pain in his back. The court extended the morning recess to 20 minutes in order to permit him to go to the sheriff's office where he might relax from the strain of the trial.

Organize Highway Association Today

Pan-American Body Meets and Completes Work of Organization.

LITTLE ROCK, July 30. (AP)—The Arkansas division of the Pan-American Highway Association completed its organization here today with the election of H. Grady Manning, of Little Rock, as president.

Other officers elected were: George Hays, Newport, and R. Q. Wortham, Prescott, vice presidents; R. C. McDaniel, Arkadelphia, secretary-treasurer; J. L. Childress, Walnut Ridge, Vernon L. Thompson, Little Rock, and M. E. Melton, Texarkana, directors.

Trials and Tribulations of A Young Lady Who Yo-Yo's Down But Not Up

Yo-yoing is an extremely fascinating pastime in the opinion of many devotees of the little Hawaiian toy, but the life of a yo-yo artist is not all skillful and beer. Anyway, that's the opinion of a certain young lady here who has tried faithfully to master the intricacies of the thing and was, as she expresses it, "can yo-yo down but I can't yo-yo up again."

Which is perhaps why our Scotch friend, Jimmy Montgomery, declined the challenge hurled at him by some ambitious yo-yoer for a sustained yo-yoing. Some fellow holds a 50-hour record of continuous winding and unwinding the capacious thingamajig but Jimmy, in common with many other Hope artists declines to try and relieve him of his honors.

But we're coming along nicely and Hope soon will boast not alone of the largest watermelons in the world but the most expert and artistic yo-yoers as well. Paul Briant, down at his drug store, sells yo-yos and demonstrates them. He found Mar Duffie an apt pupil and Star confidently expects them to be top-notchers in its yo-yo contest.

Charles Newham, who took a post-graduate course in yo-yoing, and Pat Casey, who claims because he can spin a top is qualified to give expert advice may be induced to act as judges—if they can be induced to stay out of the contest.

So far, the fad has not invaded Star office to any great extent. Only the advertising, circulation, business and mechanical departments are affected to date—but we fear the worst! Plans for the contest are now being drawn and a working model is expected to be on exhibition some time in the future.

Neither Dollar Moves Tuesday

Number One Last Reported At Bodcaw — Number Two In City.

For the first time since they were placed in circulation here last Thursday both of The Star's stay-at-home dollars failed to change hands since yesterday's report.

Number One, which passed out of town last Friday when Mr. May took it to Bodcaw, Nevada county, was still unheard from today morning, and Number Two, which reached the Saenger theatre yesterday morning, did not move during the day.

State Must Pay for Prison Farm

Chancellor Holds Amount
Due Now In Excess of $27,000.

LITTLE ROCK, July 30.—(AP)—Chancellor Dodge in Pulaski chancery court today held that the state owes the Edmond Urquhart estate a balance of $10,000 in principal and $17,000 interest for the purchase more than 20 years ago of the approximately 8,000 acres comprising the Cummings prison farm.

Under Act No. 120, of the 1929 legislature, attorney general Norwood was ordered to bring suit to determine the amount due by the state to the Urquhart heirs. The act appropriated $27,000 for the payment of any principal found due after suit for the payment of any interest.

It was indicated today that attorneys for the estate would appeal from the ruling in order to determine the constitutionality of the act regarding refusal of the state to pay interest on any balance of the principal found to be due.

The Usual Story Told In The Very Usual Way

JACKSON, Tenn., July 30.—(AP)—Sam H. Stevens, 27, of Franklin, Tenn., was killed instantly and two other persons injured six miles west of here today when the auto in which they were riding collided with another car.

The Stevens car plunged into a ditch and was overturned with its skull being fractured.

To Name Queen At Ceremony At Saenger Tonight

Identity of Judges Made Known After Regent Is Chosen.

CHOICE BY NUMBER

Judges Will Not Know
Name of Queen Until After Selection.

Queen of the fourth annual Melon Festival in this city will be selected tonight at a ceremony at the Saenger theatre when the thirteen misses, chosen as Maids of Honor and one of whom will be Queen, parade across the stage at the theatre for the judges to make a selection.

Who the judges are, whether masculine or feminine, and what particular type of beauty they prefer—whether the slim, boyish figure or dimples and curves appeal to them—are matters perplexing many pretty heads in Hempstead county today. Whether to wear this or that and "how does my hair look?" are questions of weightier import than the flight of the St. Louis Robin and the strength of the Kellogg-Briand pact.

The girls are scheduled to meet this afternoon, dinner guests of the Business and Professional Women's Club at the Barlow. Then they go to the Saenger for the choosing of the Queen and thence to the studio for group and individual photographs. The entertainment at the Barlow is a change from the previous plan, announced yesterday after Mr. Barlow had been able to so arrange matters that the private dining room at the hotel might be at their disposal.

In passing in review before the judges, the maids will be known only by number, the Queen chosen by number and her identity made known to the judges after the selection. That is when, also, the identity of the judges will be disclosed to the public.

The ceremony will follow the first show and there will be no charge other than the usual admission charge to the theatre. In short, if you see the show just keep your seat and watch the queen chosen.

Alibi Didn't Work and Car Thieves Captured

MOBILE, Ala., July 30.—The alibi of James C. Rahey and Mitt Hudson failed to work to Detective Lawrence Arras. "Believe it or not, Sir, we are pushing this automobile to police headquarters," they said as Arras spied them pushing an automobile through the streets. The vehicle was reported stolen an hour previously from a local battery service company. A charge of grand larceny will be placed against them.

Prohi Officer Killed In Wreck

Car Turns Turtle and Driver Suffers Fractured Skull.

LITTLE ROCK, July 30.—(AP)—Charles Cooley, 32, prohibition agent working out of the office of the prohibition administrator for Arkansas, was instantly killed early today in a wreck of his automobile between here and Benton while en route to the latter city. He was one of the officers recently engaged in raids in various sections of the state.

Cooley, according to witnesses, swerved to the extreme right of the road to avoid a head-on collision with another car which was endeavoring to pass a car going to Little Rock. Cooley's car overturned after leaving the roadway. His skull was crushed.

Cooley was on his way to Benton in connection with business for the prohibition administrator's office, it was said here, and was traveling at a high rate of speed.

The body was taken to Benton and will probably be shipped to Arkadelphia, his former home and the home of his parents. Cooley was well known throughout the state, having been employed by the prohibition enforcement agency for a number of years.

Camden Boys Band Wins A Ball Game

Band Concert at City Hall
Last Night Thoroughly Enjoyable.

Camden boys band came over yesterday to be entertained by the Hope boys and in turn to aid in entertaining a crowd of Hope citizens last night.

In the ball game at Fair Park in the afternoon the Camden boys took off honors by a score of 9-2 and at night on city hall lawn both bands joined in a concert which was highly appreciated by a crowd of listeners.

Today the Hope boys are in Haynesville, La., here they play the Haynesville band boys a game of ball this afternoon and join the Haynesville band in a concert tonight.

Fruit Fly Quarantine Is Hard On Rum Runners

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—Assistant secretary Lowman said today that the quarantine by federal and state authorities on Florida on the Mediterranean fruit fly had worked a hardship on rum runners and had forced them to seek a new means on ingress to the United States probably along the Mexican border.

Thumb Prints Changed By Use of Fag Lighters

Cigarettes are changing the nation's thumb prints, due to the use of cigarette lighters, according to Carl Stratton, superintendent of the Oklahoma City Bertillon Department.

"After a few years of constant use of a lighter, a small scar is developed across the thumb," says Superintendent Stratton. "If it is a cheap, hard-working lighter, the scar is plain."

"See that streak across the thumb's whorl? That comes from a lighter. Now on this print, there's no streak but it's the same thumb. The picture was taken before the man bought his lighter."

Lighter scars, according to Stratton, do not prevent identification by the Bertillon system. The use of lighters, however, is reported to be keeping pace with the steady gains which the new processes of blending and toasting and the dietary usefulness of the cigarette as a means to slenderness have brought about in production of the short smokes. Stratton gave twenty ways by which thumb prints could be identified, whether a person used a lighter or an ordinary match.

Commission Bars Jacobs Stable of Fighters

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP)—Although refusing to divulge the grounds for its action, the New York State Athletic Commission struck another blow at the Maz Schmeling camp today when it revoked the license of Schmeling and all other boxers in the Joe Jacobs stable. Jacobs is Schmeling's American manager by choice.

The Record of the Robert E. Lee

ASSOCIATED Press dispatches today announced the arrival in St. Louis of the speedboat, "Bogie," piloted by its owner, Dr. Louis LeRoy, at the end of what was described as a race against the record of the famous old steamboat, the Robert E. Lee. The Bogie made the run of 1,154 miles from New Orleans in nearly three hours less time than the steamboat did in 1870. For some years gasoline motored boats have been assaulting that famous old record run between the Lee and the Natchez. Today the Memphis sportsman accomplished the object and is acclaimed for what he did. And that is fair.

Yet, it is hard to mentally grip the idea that he broke the record of the Robert E. Lee. You don't throw heavyweights into the ring with the bantams; put such football teams as Georgia Tech against a grammar school eleven; nor arrange races between an ox cart and an airplane. There may not be much discrepancy between the Bogie and the Robert E. Lee in this respect as in the contraries mentioned above, but it remains obvious that the steam boat and the gasoline motor boat are in entirely different classes, not to mention the 59 years of progress in water travel since the Lee's famous run.

According to the clocks the Bogie has beaten the Robert E. Lee.

But according to truth and fact has it?

Shouldn't a speedboat do the course in many hours less to gain any acclaim, or are there handicaps of navigation to the small craft to off set the apparent advantages of modern water travel?

The record of the Robert E. Lee, steamboat, still stands, a glorious achievement, unequalled.

The record of the Bogie, perhaps, is a fine record for a small gasoline boat, and that's that. —Arkadelphia Siftings Herald.

Perilous Craft

THE American navy was roundly criticised two years ago when the sinking of the submarine S-51, following on the heels of the loss of the S-4, made some people feel that the navy department must be in some way inefficient or slipshod.

It appears, however, that this criticism may have been entirely unjustified—that the loss of the two submarines does not in any way imply clackness on the part of our naval leaders.

The loss of the British submarine H-47 the other day was the 14th submarine catastrophe the British navy has had since the war. These tragedies have taken the lives of many British sailors. Yet the British navy is the very symbol of efficiency and seamanship.

Submarines at best, are risky crafts. Only their supreme importance in war justifies their retention in the fleet in time of peace.

A Great Record

NEAR EAST RELIEF, according to dispatches, is about to surrender its charter and extinguish itself as an organization. As it does so, it deserves a high tribute for the work it has accomplished in its relatively brief life.

In the last decade, this organization has saved 1,500,000 lives. It has given physical relief and educational facilities to 132,000 orphans, provided medical aid for some 6,000,000 people and fed 12,500,000 more during periods of famine.

Those totals are amazingly significant. All who have had any part in the work of Near East Relief may take extreme pride in them. Seldom have the American people done anything more creditable.

Poor Butterfly!

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNE DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—More ambassadorships may be enough to satisfy such elderly millionaires as Charles G. Dawes and Dwight Morrow, but the really ambitious federal job-seeker will go hunting for a post as an American High Commissioner.

An ambassador parks himself in a foreign capital and usually becomes little more than a glorified messenger boy. But when an American High Commissioner goes anywhere he goes there to run the whole show. He has the rank of an ambassador and he ranks as the senior officer present at all times. There is no more powerful American outside this country than an American High Commissioner. He is perhaps the nearest modern approach we have to the old Roman pro-consul.

These Jobs Are Scarce

Unfortunately, there are very few of these jobs to be had. There never were very many and the only High Commissioner now in force is that of Major General John A. Russell of the Marines, who has been our High Commissioner to Haiti since 1922. The chances are that General Russell will hold his job indefinitely, but there has been some agitation for his replacement by a civilian, so it may be a good tip to job-seekers to suggest that they sound out President Hoover.

One recalls only two other High Commissioners within the past two decades. Sumner Wells was made High Commissioner to the Dominican Republic several years ago and served two years, commuting between Santo Domingo and Washington until he had straightened out the country to the State Department's satisfaction.

The other was Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol who, as High Commissioner to Turkey, was one of the most important figures in the Near East during the post-war period. Bristol co-ordinated our policies and looked after American interests in that section of the world and proved himself a diplomat of parts. He was on the commission which investigated the Greek occupation of Smyrna and was a delegate to the Lausanne Conference. Lately he has commanded the Asiatic fleet.

Russell the Whole Country

Russell is an excellent example of the power that can be lodged with a High Commissioner. He deals directly with the president—sometimes called "our puppet president"—of Haiti and the State Department. For eight years, under our treaty with Haiti, he has had sway over that country's customs, finances, police system, public health.

All American treaty officials, directing these various branches of government, come under the general. Although an officer of the Marines he is not compelled to wear a uniform and doesn't. He has been on the job for eight years and was first appointed on the recommendation of a senatorial committee which went to the island about 1920.

What appeared to be a demonstration of Russell's power was given last year when Senator King of Utah, who had criticized American occupation of Haiti, was barred from visiting the country by President Borno. While it could not be shown that Russell had inspired the ban, few failed to concede that a word from him to Borno would promptly have averted this affront to an American senator.

With the benign thought (and approval of Russell, free press and

BARBS

Golf is like marriage; it looks easy.

Isn't it about time we'd be hearing of a woman with twelve grandchildren staying up in a plane 300 hours?

Men spend about $1,000,000,000 a year in the United States in efforts to make themselves beautiful. Yet they say the ladies are wasteful.

Cotton growers are still trying to induce women to wear more cotton. Why don't they try devising some warm garment for summer and a chilly costume for winter?

France is trying to cut down on American movies. We could cut down a little ourselves and not be too restrictive.

Edison says he once went 174 hours without sleep. He knows how it is then to live next door to a guy with a cornet.

And then there was the cub reporter who went home without writing anything about the wedding because the groom dropped dead.

Free Speech in Haiti have been pretty generally suppressed and Borno has jammed through laws extending his titular dictatorship and effecting his domination of the Haitian courts, which we did not take over under the treaty. American Marines long ago dissolved the Haitian congress, so Russell hasn't a representative legislative body to contend with a ha our governor general in the Philippines.

Summer Months Hard on Stomach Sufferers

Quick, Natural Relief from Simple Herbal Compound

How much suffering a weak stomach can cause! Painful gas, bloating, sleeplessness, loss of weight—vigor. Bad enough at any time, but when exhausting summer heat is added, strength is drained from the sturdiest body.

But here is one of many thousands who found a way to relief:

Mrs. A. M. Owens, of 1716 Taylor St., Rt. 5, Box 34, Little Rock, Ark., says: "I was so weak I couldn't walk across the floor. I had spent a fortune trying to get well and would be in my grave if it weren't for Tanlac. Now I eat and sleep fine and have gained 22 lbs."

It's never too late to try Tanlac. So get to your druggist now and get a bottle. No mineral drugs—only Nature's own medicinal herbs, but its efficacy is so apparent that often only one bottle is needed to bring desired relief. Money back if it doesn't help.

When things go wrong, as they often will, With the work you have in hand, Just whistle a song of cheer until You can reach the work you've planned; And do your best, however men sneer, And all will be right in the end, my dear. Just do the work that you have to do, And whatever it is you'll find— If you keep a song in the heart of you, To help what you have in mind, And do your best, however men sneer, And all will be right in the end, my dear.

Old Florida Bank Another Failure

Northern Depositors Drawing Out Funds Is Given As Cause.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 29. —(AP)—The Broward County Bank & Trust Co., of Cocoa, one of the oldest financial institutions in the state, and the Melbourne State Bank, of Melbourne, failed to open their doors today. Their affairs were placed in the hands of the state banking department, with the statement they closed to protect depositors.

The closing of the banks, it was announced, was brought about by petty withdrawals of cash by northern depositors over a space of the past three months.

The Broward County Bank & Trust Company was established in 1889 and was said to have been the third oldest state bank in Florida.

English Cotton Mills Close Down

Workers Refuse To Accept Wage Cut and Stay Off Job.

MANCHESTER, Eng., July 29. —(AP)—The biggest stoppage in the British industrial world since the strike of 1926 on the greatest tie-up in the cotton industry in a decade was on in Lancashire today with approximately half a million workers idle.

The 15,000 mills in the territory bordering this big industrial city were idle today, the workers staying away from work rather than accept a twelve and one-half per cent cut in wages.

This heart of the British industrial world faced probably the worst time in its frequently troubled history. The number of mills continuing operations at the old scale or in which the employees have accepted the wage cut is now known, but it is estimated at noon today that less than a score are in operation.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Molly Burnham, sob sister on a Boston newspaper, has been shot by a dope fiend known as Dopey Dan. Molly was covering the Mandinello trial—the trial of a notorious gunman charged with the murder of a night watchman. She believed the defendant guilty, and her stories were admittedly biased. As a result of one of her articles falling in the hands of a jurymen, the judge called a mistrial. Meantime, this Dopey Dan—his drug-crazed brain fired with the exploits of Chicago's racketeers—determined to kill Molly.

His bullets wound her in the shoulder, and she is taken to the Relief Station, where her name is on the dangerous list. Dan eats an orange smeared with rat poison, and shoots himself for good measure.

In the hospital, waiting for good news are Molly's friends, and her sweetheart, Jack Wells. Also Red Flynn, a police court reporter, with whom she is writing a crime play.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XVIII

Molly smiled wanly. "Hello, Sweetheart," she whispered. "Guess my little dinner party's off."

Her shoulder was bandaged, and one arm was in a sling. Even her head was swathed.

"It's nothing, really," she assured Jack. "Just a lot of fancy scenery. The nurse says there are a dozen photographers out there, waiting to take my picture. I guess they bribed the doctors to make me picturesque."

"But your head!" stammered Jack. "They told me it was only your shoulder."

"I cut it when I fell," she explained.

MOM'N POP

"Dear Daughter," she wrote.

"Hardly had our anxiety over your condition abated, when another shock was forced upon us. Today's paper announces that you are planning to write a crime play, in which you will include 'lurid highmarks of your own career.' My dear child, that would be more than your father and I could bear. Write, I beg of you, and set our fears at Except I've got to be fair to you. Don't you see, Molly? Don't make it any harder, dear."

He had walked to the window now, and was tugging on the curtain cord. His face was as white as her bandages.

"You've a career ahead of you," he told her doggedly. "You want to write—and God knows you can write, Molly. Why, honey-girl, you can write all around lots of these women that get their stuff published all over the place! Wo-he knows what he's talking about. He's talked it over with a lot of big guns. He says you'll go over with a bang. Well, once you find yourself where you want to be, dear—a playwright, and all that—that's going to be something different. You understand, don't you?"

"No," she said in a scared little voice. "I'm afraid I don't." "All right then. I'll make it clearer. If you're going to make a lot of money, and grab a lot of fame—good gosh, Molly, you don't want to be tied to a no good son-of-a-gun."

"You want to break our engagement, Jack?" she asked quietly. "You really want to?" "Yes," he insisted stubbornly. "I do. It's for your own good, Molly. It's because I love you so much much. I'm going away. Somewhere so far that I can't pester you any more. I'm going to leave you free, Sweetheart, to have a career."

"If that's the price, Jack, I'll give up the career." "No," he said. "You can't. It's there—that talent—right inside you. You can't cut it out any more than you can amputate your heart."

"Oh, yes, I can." "Well, I won't let you. It would come between us after a while. You know what Longfellow had to say—Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these—'I might have been.' I guess it's the truth. You'd always have been, if you hadn't married me."

"But we could get married," she cried. "You could be an architect, and I could write." She tried to laugh. "And we could have a lot of little authors, who'd illustrate their own stories. You know—they'd take after us both."

"And you drawing down maybe a thousand a week," he cut in, "and me $50. Do you think I could stand that?"

"If I love you—yes." "If I love you?" he laughed harshly. "That's not the question. If you kept on loving me, you mean. And you couldn't do it, Molly. No woman could. A woman hasn't any respect for a man that can't take care of her."

Miss McGowan came knocking, thermometer in hand.

"Now what have you been saying to excite my patient, Mr. Wells?" She demanded.

She sent him away, and followed him into the hall to whisper:

"Her temperature's 102!" (To Be Continued)

"Foreign Legion" Is Thrilling Romance

He nodded. "There's a regular convention. All the reporters in the city I guess."

rest. The papers have carried such dreadful stories. It is hard to know what to believe. Mr. Wells has been so kind. He has kept us constantly informed of your condition. You have written of him in such a way that your father and I had come to regard him as a struggling young man, with a meager income. His telegrams and long distance telephone calls indicate, however, considerable affluence. I hope my dear, if Mr. Wells is the fine young man he seems to be, you will not let this ridiculous career of yours stand in the way of a happy marriage.

Molly wired her distracted parents flippantly, inviting them to the premiere of her play, and assuring them that it would make their hair stand on end. Then she sent for Jack.

"See here," she accused him, "how come you're telephoning my family? Don't you know transcontinental conversations are a little luxury reserved for millionaires?"

"It didn't cost much," he affirmed. "The poor things were worried stiff." "And you've been wiring them," she continued sternly. "That's nothing. Gee whiz, Molly."

"Jack, you're incorrigible." Her voice now was very gentle. "I love you fearfully." He sat on the side of the bed, and crushed her hands in his.

"And I haven't a cent," he cried bitterly. "I love you," she whispered. "That's your tough luck," he retorted with bitter humor. "Listen, Molly, I've been thinking things over. I want to free you from our engagement."

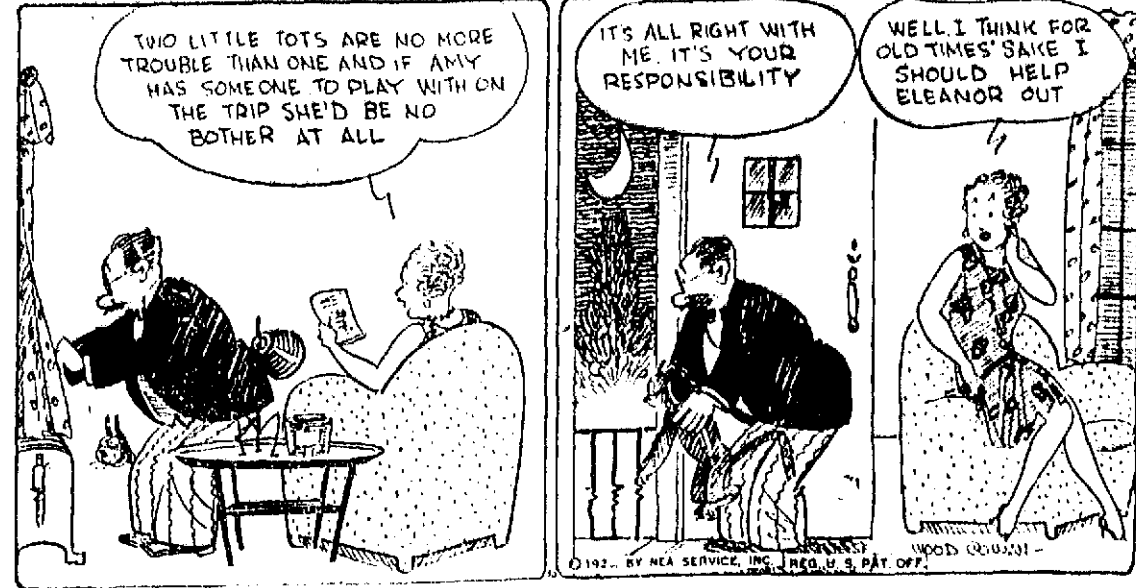

"Jack!" I do, he insisted stubbornly. "Let's talk it over sensibly."

"Don't you love me any more?" "Love you!" he groaned.

The smile fled from her lips. "What's wrong, dear?"

"Nothing. Not a darn thing."

Helen Wills Returns—And How

The newest mode in the Paris fashion racket is that long skirt Helen Wills came home with the other day. The American tennis star is pictured above, right, as she returned to New York after a triumphant conquest of European courts—royal and tennis. With her is Betty Nuthall, 114, England's ranking star he'll compete in this country.

of the iron discipline, the fateful situations into which the hero is thrown or the remarkable character which causes his downfall a ravishing beauty—blonde, hot-blooded and deadly.

Two of the sequences remain in the mind especially because of their realism and beauty. One of them is the sand storm on the desert, Friday.

None for a long time has an audience here seen a picture that equaled "The Foreign Legion." None will soon forget the horror enthralling the soldiers of the Foreign Legion unawares. The other is the trial scene in the courtroom. For these two sequences alone, the picture is worth going to see.

Norman Kerry and Lewis Stone, undoubtedly do the finest work of their long and successful careers in the starring roles. Kerry as Richard, the unfortunate victim of circumstances, and Stone as his unknown father, Colonel Destin, have opportunities for acting that rarely come in other pictures. Needless to say, both of these skillful play-
